the opposing interests had come together even in an informal way.

The pending strike or lockout is certainly the most remarkable ever experienced in the history of the Western nail trade. Not the least remarkable feature is the firmness with which the forces have been held together on both sides. This is trade. Not the least lemans above the street frames with which the forces have is the firmness with which the forces have been held together on both sides. This is fitted more remarkable on the side of the Nailers' Association, from the fact that when the strike commenced, June 1, bearly nine months ago, there was just party nine months ago, there was just $35.00 in the Association's treasury.
